

State of the Art

JAMES F. TUNE

PRESIDENT AND CEO

The years 2009 and 2010 have been wrenching for the arts community and the arts organizations that contribute so much to the livability of our community. We have seen reduced employment, full-time employees converted to part-time, benefits being cut and programming pared down.

Overall funding from public sources, corporations, foundations and individuals has fallen by 25 to 30 percent. Although the economy is showing some signs of life and thus there is the prospect of slowly improving funding from the private sector, the prospects for public funding seem to be worsening.

To the contrary, what we are seeing in dance, music, opera, theatre and the visual arts amazes us all. One can point to truly outstanding events in all sectors.

One might think in these rather dire circumstances that there would have been a huge negative impact on the arts produced and presented in our community. Yet, this is simply not so. To the contrary, what we are seeing in dance, music, opera, theatre and the visual arts amazes us all. One can point to truly outstanding events in all sectors—Directors' Choice and All Tharp at Pacific Northwest Ballet, Lucia di Lammermoor at Seattle Opera, Ruined at Intiman Theatre, Hamlet at Seattle Shakespeare Company and the spectacular Picasso exhibit at the Seattle Art Museum are but examples of the stunning opportunities we have to participate in the arts. Our community well deserves its reputation as one of the top places for the arts in the country. And our periodic economic impact study of the arts in our region based on 2009 data, generously funded this year by the Paul G. Allen Family Foundation and The Boeing Company, shows the huge economic impact the arts have in our region. The contributions both artistically and economically make this a great place to live, to work, to raise a family and to grow a business.

Well, what of the future? I have to say I worry that there will be burnout in our arts community—that the commitment of our arts groups to excellence cannot be sustained over the long-term without substantial support. ArtsFund's new board chair, Jim Duncan, Chairman and Principal of Sparling, put it quite well in his comments upon assuming the chair in November: "Give To The Arts And The Arts Will Give Back." Indeed. Please join us.

*"A creative economy is the fuel of magnificence."
— Ralph Waldo Emerson*

CAMPAIGN 2011

ASSOCIATES KICK-OFF

ArtsFund's annual campaign succeeds because so many people are passionate about having a cultural life that nourishes people's souls and makes this one of the best places to live in this country. In 2011, members of the ArtsFund board and members of our volunteer Associates program have never been so inspired. Here's a look into the formation and motivation of the current Associates who will raise some $325,000 from businesses and individuals over the coming months. As a result of current and past Associates, the Associates program as a whole will bring in over $600,000 this year.

Associates Program: Promoting the arts

Learn why a handful of the 2011 Associate Cohorts are willing to dedicate 10 to 13 hours per month for six months of their lives to be members of the Associates program and promote the arts through ArtsFund.

- I want to be an Associate to give back to the arts community. Though I am an engineer and recognize the importance of math and science, I know that math and science MUST be balanced with the arts to create stronger individuals.
-Denise Nakamura, The Boeing Company
- I would like to be an Associate to experience different arts and music available in Seattle. I would also like to share those experiences with other members of our community. I helped build the new SAM downtown and enjoyed all the different types of art that go into a museum of that caliber.
-Ben Laws, Sellen Construction
- First of all, supporting the arts in our community is VITAL and I am compelled fervently to participate in philanthropic causes for the arts. Additionally, I believe wholeheartedly in ArtsFund's mission and allocation process.
-Jillian Titus, Nintendo of America, Inc.
- I strongly believe in effectively allocating funds and improving the lives of others through the arts. My hope is that I will build lasting relationships with others that share my passion for the arts.
-Trevor Sharp, Oppenheimer & Co. Inc.

Associates Kick-Off Keynote Speaker

Associates at this year's kick-off were inspired by veteran fundraiser and consultant Tara Morgan.

From Pilchuck Glass School to PAWS to the Seattle International Film Festival, Tara Morgan's experience runs the gamut from grants to events and from corporations to major donors. She is currently the Director of the Mount Baker Community Club in Seattle, running the Clubhouse and masterminding community engagement events like the first-ever Mount Baker All-Ages Spelling Bee, a kids rock concert series, and a year-long speaker series highlighting everything from pop culture artwork to garden history.

*"Supporting art is as creative as making art."
—Jacob Lawrence*

Winter blues? See a film!

When you think of the arts, you probably picture a ballerina en pointe, a symphony orchestra or choir making the concert hall ring, or imagine yourself standing in front of a Picasso. However, there is another sibling in the family: the art of cinema! Three dynamic organizations in Seattle offer exciting film programs to please any palate. ArtsFund is proud to support these groups among its 62 beneficiaries.

Northwest Film Forum

(www.nwfilmforum.org) screens over 200 independently made and classic films annually, offering a year-round schedule of filmmaking classes for all ages, and supporting filmmakers at all stages of their careers. Here are some happenings at NWFF:

Children's Film Festival Seattle (Jan. 28-Feb. 6). NWFF's sixth annual celebration of great children's films from around the globe. Kicks off on January 29 with a live performance by Caspar Babypants (aka Chris Ballew of The Presidents of the United States) and a pancake breakfast on January 30.

Sunrise with a live score (Jan 13-14).

F.W. Murnau's landmark silent film comes with a fresh live score written by the cellist Lori Goldston. This story of the quiet country and the bustling city, a peaceful family undone by seduction, is one of the greatest films ever made.

You're Looking at Country (Feb. 10).

One night only: the evening's line-up includes forgotten footage of vintage country performers singing tales of murder, mischief and betrayal. With a rare screening of "Five Minutes to Live" starring Johnny Cash.

SIFF (www.siff.net) produces the Seattle International Film Festival each autumn and many other film events throughout the year. SIFF's mission is to create experiences that bring people together to discover extraordinary films from around the world. Coming to SIFF Cinema at McCaw Hall this winter:

National Theatre Live. For almost 50 years Britain's National Theatre has been at the heart of theatrical excellence and innovation. SIFF Cinema is the exclusive Seattle-area venue for a new season of the very best of British theatre captured live in high definition and shown in cinemas worldwide. Shown on select Monday evenings at 7:30pm, the season includes William Shakespeare's Hamlet starring Rory Kinnear (January 10), the electric smash hit musical FELA! (February 7), Shakespeare's King Lear starring Derek Jacobi (February 28), Academy Award-winning director Danny Boyle's visionary Frankenstein (April 11), and Chekov's masterpiece The Cherry Orchard starring Zoë Wanamaker (July 18).

And Everything Is Going Fine (January 14-19) provides an intimate portrait of master monologist Spalding Gray, as described by his most critical, irreverent and insightful biographer: himself. Director Steven Soderbergh, who collaborated with Gray on Gray's Anatomy (1996), has sifted through rare and revealing footage to construct a riveting final monologue.

Baaria (January 28-February 3). From the acclaimed director of Cinema Paradiso comes an epic saga of life and death, love and hatred in a vibrant Sicilian town in the first half of the 20th century. The film was the opening night Selection of the Venice Film Festival, the official Oscar entry for best foreign language film and a Golden Globe award nominee.

Three Dollar Bill Cinema

(www.seattlequeerfilm.com) provides access to films by, for, and about lesbian, gay, bisexual, and transgender (LGBT) people and their families, and a forum for LGBT filmmakers to share and discuss their work with audiences. Three Dollar Bill Cinema produces the annual Seattle Lesbian & Gay Film Festival in the fall, along with other programs throughout the year.

On February 27, break out your heels and gowns, or sneakers and jeans, for the 6th Annual Academy Awards Party ("Seattle's most fabulous Academy Awards party!"), a benefit for Three Dollar Bill Cinema and Gay City Health Project. And on March 25, join Three Dollar Bill for Velvet Goldmine, the 4th annual dinner and auction.

HOLIDAY PARTY

One benefit of contributing to the Arts Benefactor Circle is the opportunity to mingle with top corporate supporters, Executive and Artistic Directors of arts groups, and other community figures at ArtsFund's annual Holiday Party. This year's event took place on December 3rd at the Stimson Green Mansion and had over 150 people in attendance.

Associate Shelby Jurgensen and her husband Curtis were all smiles at the Holiday Party.

ArtsFund trustees Stanley Savage, Joshua Green III, and Classical KING-FM Board Member Steve Clifford.

ArtsFund Board Chair Jim Duncan, Gaylee Duncan, Elliott Peacock, and Sarah Loertscher.

There's never been a better time to become an Arts Benefactor Circle Donor

Contributions from individuals are one of the most quickly growing sources of support for ArtsFund. Individuals give because they know a single annual gift to ArtsFund is the most effective way to support more than 60 nonprofit arts groups in our community, and because they trust the integrity of ArtsFund's second-to-none grant making process. The real reward to all ArtsFund donors is experiencing the quality and accessibility of the arts in this region. To better honor our individual donors, ArtsFund has revamped donor benefits as described here.

For more information about the Arts Benefactor Circle please contact ArtsFund's Director of Individual and Planned Giving, Annemarie Scalzo (206-788-3049/ Annemaries@artsfund.org).
