Engagement Essentials

Definitions

Community
[This definition is exclusively intended to apply to community engagement work]
Any group of people with common interests or characteristics defined, for example, by place, tradition, intention, or spirit. (Based on a definition created by Alternate ROOTS) Or even simpler: A group of people with something in common.

Arts-Based Community Development
Arts activities designed to serve community interests. Principal beneficiary of direct, intended outcomes: community.

Audience Development
Activities undertaken by an arts organization as part of a marketing strategy designed to produce immediate results that benefit the organization: sales, donations, etc.. Principal beneficiary of direct, intended outcomes: arts organization.

Audience Engagement
Activities undertaken by an arts organization as part of a marketing strategy designed to deepen relationships with current stakeholders. The purpose is, over time, to improve retention, increase frequency, and expand reach through stakeholder networks. Principal beneficiary of direct, intended outcomes: arts organization.

Community Engagement
Activities undertaken by an arts organization as part of a mission strategy designed to build deep relationships between the organization and the communities in which it operates for the purpose of achieving mutual benefit. It is accomplished by developing trust and understanding through which reach can be expanded. This results, over the long term, in increased ticket sales and financial support as well as more arts-friendly public policy. The arts and community are equal partners. Principal beneficiary of direct, intended outcomes: community and arts organization.

Transformative Engagement
Community engagement that creates change in the arts organization—e.g., in programming, organizational processes, and/or modes of thinking. The root of such engagement is community learning: learning about the needs, interests, even personality of the community with which the arts organization is attempting to engage. If an organization is not doing anything differently as a result of its engagement efforts, it’s not focused on the community. It’s focused on itself. It is only transformative engagement that builds an arts organization’s relevance.

Evaluating Engagement Process Effectiveness

Pre-existing relationship with identified communities (partners) built on respect

How long-standing is the relationship with the participating communit(y)(ies)?
How deep is/are the relationship(s) with the participating communit(y)(ies)?
  ● #/% involved
  ● Enthusiasm for relationship on part of participating communit(y)(ies)
  ● Enthusiasm for relationship on part of the organization

Mutual benefit (beyond or in addition to $ for community organization)

[Note: If there is no community-recognized benefit of the project, this is not a community engagement project]

Is the only benefit to the community financial? (Yes/No)
If no:
  ● How well articulated/understood are community-selected goals for the project?
  ● To what extent does the project meet community goals?
  ● How well articulated/understood are the organizational goals for the project?
  ● To what extent does the project further organizational mission and meet project goals?

Collaborative design, implementation

At what point in the planning/development did the participating communit(y)(ies) begin to contribute to project design?

Was/were the communit(y)(ies) involved in:
  ● Selecting programming?
  ● Marketing efforts?
  ● Production/participation details?
  ● Developing post-event relationship maintenance plans?

Relationship Maintenance Plan

How clearly detailed are the organization’s post-project plans for maintaining the relationships with the participating communit(y)(ies)?

SAMPLE: XYZ Arts Organization’s Commitment to Our Communities

XYZ Arts, in living out its mission commitment to “[portion of mission statement that supports community engagement],” sees itself as a resource for improving lives in and strengthening the civic fabric of [city/geographic region]. [Art form we support] is, of course, valuable in and of itself; yet we also recognize its power as a tool for human betterment. Insofar as our resources permit, we seek to develop mutually beneficial relationships with individuals and organizations to help us further the public good. We will approach these relationships as learners, understanding that our expertise lies in [art form we support] and that our partners are the authorities in their fields of interest. Out of these relationships we will develop experiences in which [art form we support] supports community goals. We aspire to be a contributor to all things of importance to [city/geographic region] and to be recognized as a reliable and flexible collaborator on projects that make [city/geographic region] a better place to live.

■ Maintain Relationships
  ○ Anticipation (FOMO: Fear Of Missing Out)
  ○ Event
  ○ Memory
    ■ In the context of the event: artist talkbacks, story circles (audience responses to the work)
    ■ Document event (catalogs, photos, blog posts, social media posts)
    ■ Surveys (not just “liked/did not like,” but questions around the meaning of the work to the attendee and its impact upon them)
    ■ Discussion groups on event topics
    ■ Follow-up community events (dinners, coffees, mixers) This is by no means a comprehensive listing of the possibilities. Each event supporting community relationships will be unique and should raise its own ideas about stimulating memory in the service of engagement.

ArtsEngaged offers training for anyone interested in better understanding or furthering the work of community engagement in the arts.

Understanding Engagement is designed for board members, upper level staff of arts organizations, anyone else wishing to better understand community engagement as it applies to the arts. It introduces basic concepts of and rationales for community engagement.

Community Engagement Training (CET) is designed for anyone (organization-based teams or individuals) interested in helping arts organizations connect more deeply with their communities. It emphasizes the means of implementing a community engagement agenda.
